PRISONER REVIEW BOARD

29th Annual Report
January 1 to December 31, 2006

Governor: Rod Blagojevich
Chairman: Jorge Montes

LETTER FROM THE CHAIRMAN

STATE OF ILLINOIS
ROD R. BLAGOJEVICH, GOVERNOR

Jorge Montes, Chairman

The Honorable Rod Blagojevich
Office of the Governor
207 Statehouse
Springfield, Illinois 62706

Dear Gov. Blagojevich:

The Illinois Prisoner Review Board is pleased once again to present for your review its twenty-ninth annual report for the year 2006.

Mindful that one of your priorities has been the reduction of the historically high recidivism rate in our state, the board has continued to aggressively tackle this problem by, among other things, working closely with the Department of Corrections to ensure that more inmates successfully re-integrate into our society. Just one example of our success in making a dent in the system is our Diversionary Program in Cook County, which has already helped restore many lives while at the same time saving the state and that county over two million dollars.

Our two certificate programs are now up and running, as well. We hope that in time these will become a more effective tool in assisting ex-offenders to return to the workplace. It is a well established fact that ex-offenders who find employment after their incarceration run a lower risk of recidivating.

While always keeping public safety at the forefront, the board will continue seeking innovative programs and ideas to improve our parole system.

Sincerely yours,

Jorge Montes
Chairman

INTRODUCTION

Prior to February 1, 1978, the Illinois Prisoner Review Board ("the Board") was a division of the Illinois Department of Corrections ("IDOC") known as the Parole and Pardon Board. Today the Board is a quasi-judicial entity that makes decisions on a range of adult and juvenile prison inmate matters. It is currently composed of 15 members who are appointed by the Governor, with the approval of the State Senate.

While the number of classic parole cases has decreased in recent years, today the greater part of the Board's time is employed in holding a dramatically larger docket of parole revocation hearings, consisting of technical and new sentence revocations. This docket has grown exponentially in recent years to approximately 14,573 cases a year. These hearings, which are held at the various penal institutions around the state, can be complex fact-finding affairs, involving attorneys on both sides of the questions, witness testimony, cross-examinations, lie detector tests, and volumes of documentary evidence.

C-Number Hearings

Before 1978 one of the Board's primary mandates was to hold parole eligibility hearings for prison inmates whose sentences were of indeterminate durations. After that date, when determinate (flat) sentences were legislated in Illinois, the number of classic parole hearings for what have become known as C-number inmates, was fixed at a group of approximately 16,500 inmates, a number that has been whittled down to approximately 320 in the course of the years. These hearings continue to be held across the state and constitute the Board's most contested and deliberated hearings. The Board convenes two times a month at its Springfield headquarters to thoroughly discuss and vote on these special cases.

This kind of hearing and reviewing activity at both juvenile and adult institutions is at the heart of the Board's duties. Board members and staff travel to each institution of the Illinois Department of Corrections and to the Cook County Jail at least once each month. On any given month, the Board will visit 40 institutions to conduct its hearings.

Victim Notification

One of the Board's other historically significant mandates has been to provide victim notification services. The Board has an award-winning, specialized victim notification unit devoted to alerting victims and their families of the impending release of an inmate from IDOC.

The Victim Notification Program

The VNU has always facilitated the victims' desire to inform the Board of their opinions about the individuals who victimized them.

By allowing the victims to be involved in the process, it is the Board's intention to assist them in experiencing less frustration with the criminal justice system. Victims and their loved ones call, write or very often meet with Board members to register their opposition to parole or to request special conditions of parole. This is all coordinated by a small, dedicated staff that compose the VNU and the Operations Unit. Board members and staff work closely with victim advocates and state's attorneys throughout Illinois to coordinate efforts to protect the rights of crime victims.

The Board also convenes at least twice a month to deliberate and prepare orders which enumerate the conditions that an inmate shall abide by while on parole/mandatory supervised release. On an average month the Board will issue approximately 2,305 orders for these inmates who will be placed on mandatory supervised release pursuant to law.

Executive Clemency

Perhaps the most visible work the Board does involves executive clemency proceedings, which occur four times a year. Twice in Chicago and two times in Springfield the Board convenes to hear petitions from individuals seeking clemency in the form of a pardon, an expungement, a commutation or some other form of relief from the Governor.

Confidential recommendations are made to the Governor after these hearings are held and they are sent to his office for a final determination. Most petitioners request public hearings, but the Board also reviews petitions without a hearing if the petitioner so chooses.

Other Hearings

The Board also reviews Illinois Department of Correction's recommendations for revocation of inmate good conduct credits when there has been an alleged violation of institutional rules. It provides a hearing to permit an inmate to make a defense, if desired, against the allegation, then decides whether to revoke these credits. The Board is further authorized to review IDOC recommendations for restoration of lost credits in cases in which an inmate's good behavior appears to merit such a reward. More than 4,700 such hearings are conducted each year.

Finally, the Board carries out specialized juvenile parole hearings at eight juvenile institutions each month under provisions of the Juvenile Court Act. These hearings mirror the adult hearings described above, but are conducted pursuant to different laws than those observed in the adult hearings.

Recidivism

With the State confronting a recidivism rate of 54.6, the highest rate in its history, and considering that almost 25 percent of admissions to Illinois prisons in 2004 were technical parole violators the reintegration of individuals back into society from incarceration is an experience rife with challenges and barriers. Presently, there is an emerging belief that the larger price is being borne by society, since the practical barriers facing people with criminal records make it more likely that they will slip back into a life of crime if not effectively addressed.

One of the overwhelming requests to the Prisoner Review Board on clemency issues is that persons with convictions cannot get jobs. Many employers refuse to give jobs to convicted persons because they don't trust convicted persons, they are afraid of lawsuits on negligent hiring, insurance companies and in some cases because of legal prohibitions regarding hiring of convicted persons. However, the lack of jobs is compounding the problem. Persons who have been convicted, after they have finished their time are returning back to community only to find they can no longer get jobs. They are on public aid and because they cannot earn a living return to a life of crime in order to survive.

In order to break the high rate of recidivism, we must allow convicted persons to become law-abiding citizens. By introducing rehabilitation programs which specifically aid those who have served their debt to society, this goal can be attained.

In an effort commensurate with the-board's mission and in conjunction with the Illinois Department of Corrections the following rehabilitation certificates have been introduced:

Certificate of Good Conduct (CGC)

The Board can issue a certificate of good conduct to an offender who has demonstrated that he or she is a law-abiding citizen and is fully rehabilitated. The (CGC) does not remove the conviction from the petitioner's record, but certifies that the petitioner is rehabilitated. The (CGC) is available to people with felony convictions after a waiting period of one to five years, depending on seriousness of the offense(s).

A Certificate of Good Conduct (CGC) is available only from the Parole Board, and the process may take several months. The process includes a full background investigation by parole officers, the decision by majority of Parole Board, or by unanimous vote of three members. The CGC is granted only if the person has demonstrated good conduct for the requisite period. Additionally the board must determine if granting relief would be consistent with the individual's rehabilitation and within the limits of the public interest.

Certificates of Relief from Disability (CRD)

Facilitating re-entry into the workforce, attainment of the (CRD) entitles to the bearer the ability to attain a license in several conviction sensitive areas. An employer or licensing agency must consider it as evidence that the bearer is "rehabilitated", and individuals should not be rejected for employment or refused a license unless there is other evidence that the applicant is not qualified. As of December 31, 2005 approximately 24 of these certificates have been issued.
